

The Dove Movement

At school yesterday, did you see Negligence?
And how rude she was?
Once, several times actually, she came late into Art Class -
Students had dominoes set to fall into the shape of a dove
And - before it was finished, mind you, she trampled the dominoes over
With no apology whatsoever!
She didn't even offer to pick them up; she just left them there

Her and her RIDICULOUS friend Inequality are always screwing people over
Many a freshman they've befriended
Talking about how they're involved with the student council
They donate to this, they petition for that...it's all worthless
It's kinda sad, actually, because the naive freshmen always fall for it
Hook, line, and sinker
When they're done trampling their fad, they just leave the freshman there

I was hollering right alongside them about justice and rights four years ago
Banning words from my vocabulary
Donating to this, petitioning for that, judging people who didn't - so hard -
Negligence always got me riled up, but not give a damn past the weekend
Inequality came with her fat , knocking chairs & turning tables upside down
So I thought things were looking up
But that's because I never noticed the ceiling on the floor

You know something? I'm gonna start SOMETHin' about them
I don't care, I'll do it!
I'll walk right up to a freshman with dreams about changing the world
And I'll tell them that Negligence and Inequality are two-faced FREAKS
Anything that they stick their noses in is doomed to fail, so screw them!
Maybe I'll make a difference
Maybe I'll actually be able to set things right in this stupid school